

Your Help Needed!

The Site Environmental Report is written to tell people what impact, if any, Brookhaven National Laboratory has on the environment and what steps the Laboratory is taking to protect the environment and the public.

Have we succeeded?

We'd like to hear from you. You can use the form below to provide constructive suggestions on how the report could be improved, comment, ask questions, and add yourself to our environmental-issues mailing list. Or call us at (516) 344-2345 or e-mail us pubaf@bnl.gov.

Some questions we're particularly interested in are:

- ♦ Does the Site Environmental Report have enough detail; too much detail; too little detail on any specific issue?
- ♦ Is the report too technical, about right or not technical enough?
- ♦ Is there a change that would make the report more readable and useful to you?
